TEXTILE LABORATORY

The Textile Laboratories are equipped for fabric dyeing, both natural and synthetic, using thermoelectric dyeing tanks, induction plates, and a washing machine; for fabric drying with a drying cabinet and tumble dryer; for screen printing using the silkscreens available in the Laboratories, and for transfer printing, laminations, coatings, flocking, and devoré processes using heat presses. They are also equipped with domestic sewing machines, one industrial straight-stitch machine, one industrial overlock machine, and steam irons with boilers. Additionally in the textile labs there is tow professional embroidery machine. The laboratories are also supplied with tools for specialized processes (e.g., paint stripper, hand carder, spinner).

In these laboratories, it is possible to create fabrics starting from fiber research, including carding, spinning, and weaving. The fabrics can then be dyed, printed, embroidered, and manipulated with the support of a highly trained laboratory team. It is also possible to work with other materials such as leather and felt for the creation of accessories or various prototypes.

Finally, the campus includes a dye garden, ORTO TINTORIO, which hosts various species of dye plants and allows the collection of natural materials for the dyeing processes carried out in the laboratories. The machinery may only be used in the presence of a Laboratory Supervisor or a faculty member, or with their authorization. Students must follow the instructions provided for the proper use of each machine and the various tools and equipment available.

For this reason, starting from the academic year 21/22, the opportunity to access to ALIAS CAREER – a temporary digital identity alternative to the legal one – will be extended to all the transgender, non-binary and gender non-conforming students according to the gender self-determination principle.

The applicant will no longer be required to submit a gender dysphoria certificate issued by a mental health professional and an endocrinological assessment authorizing the hormonal replacement therapy: they will only have to subscribe a confidential agreement with the university.

The ALIAS profile, which entails the issue of a badge and an institutional e-mail account (@studenti.naba.it) with the ALIAS name, is valid only inside the University, it can be used neither in official documents such as enrollment certificates and graduation parchments, nor for internship or international mobility programs applications.

For students in a medical gender transition process under the law number 164/82: the ALIAS profile will automatically decay upon the submission to the Registration Office of the new identity document, obtained after the gender and name reassignment judgment is issued by the competent court.

Healthcare assistance

Italian students who live in Milan can choose a GP for their period of study in Milan, contacting their area health authority.

Health Authorities nearest to NABA: Via Gola, 22 – <http://www.asst-nordmilano.it/gola>

European students can use the blue card for European health services and be examined by a GP from the National Health Service, without any extra charge.

Non-EU citizens are not required to register with the local health authority, but this allows them to use healthcare services, including in hospitals, in the same way as an Italian citizen for a cost of €150.00 per year (from January to December).

To apply for this, it is necessary to have a valid foreigner's permit to stay (a receipt for this is not enough).

The Registration Office can assist students in this process.

Codice verde

NABA has a special agreement in place with Codice Verde, a private healthcare service that provides first aid services and offers the possibility to book same-day specialist examination services. NABA students can use a 10% discount for services offered.

NABA also has various agreements in place for healthcare, which can be viewed in the section on MyNABA.
