Portrait drawing and painting (intermediate level)

COURSE TEACHER

Jacopo Rinaldi

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course aims at teaching how to create a realistic portrait, or build on the students existing skills through practicing on drawing the human face, using photographs and live models. Students will work through a variety of exercises to develop precise techniques and a personal style, with a special emphasis on form and color, observing proportions, rendering color and shadow, and making quick sketches that convey a range of emotions. In its second phase the course aims to dive into different aspects of the realm of painting, by reflecting upon the methods used to represent subjects, and by experimenting with several techniques. Through the exploration of different styles and the use of several materials, students will acquire the knowledge needed not solely to learn about the realm of painting, but also to develop their own unique style.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Creating a set of sketches, copies and a final painting. To foster technical, observation and creative skills. Provide theoretical tools in order to approach the discipline from a contemporary perspective.
